MRS. EVERETT SASAKI AND DAUGHTER GERALDINE

A Marion mother and her infant daughter, Mrs. Everett Sasaki, Japanese-American, and baby Geraldine, will have leading roles in a play, "Christmas Under the Stars," by Elizabeth Emerson, to be presented at Epworth Methodist church Sunday night. Mrs. Sasaki will interpret the "true to life" role of Mrs. Murata, a young Japanese-American mother, who, with her child, is among a group of "typical" passengers on a bus which has been traveling in desert country in Arizona, and is stalled there because of mechanical difficulties. A desert scene setting has been provided as a background for the play.

Time of the dramatic presentation is Christmas eve, and the several passengers of the bus are headed for various places to celebrate the Christmas holiday. Greatly disappointed because of the failure of the bus to deliver them to their respective destinations, the passengers are unhappy until it is decided that observance in the true Christmas spirit shall be held after all. With improvised manger and costumes, they set up a replica of the first Christmas in accordance with the narrative of Christ's birth as found in the Scriptures.

Mrs. Sasaki, "Mrs. Murata," the only young mother among the group, and her infant child are the Virgin Mary and the holy baby of Bethlehem in the improvisation. Others of the bus passengers assume the characters of shepherds, wisemen, and others who come to worship the "newborn child."

Married at Epworth Church

In February, 1945, Mrs. Sasaki, then Miss Phyllis Yokoyama of Marion, became the bride of Everett Sasaki of Sacramento, Calif., at the altar of Epworth church. They moved later to Detroit, Mich., and during this summer returned here. Several weeks ago the parents brought their five-month-old daughter to the altar of the church for Christian baptism. The family has "contributed much in the development of world friendship among groups of the church," a spokesman for the church has commented.

Mrs. Sasaki is a sister of Mrs. Sally Ishida, wife of Wilson Ishida, who was an employe formerly of the Olds Poultry Farm and Hatchery here and is now employed by the Hughes Photo Service. Her parents are living in California where her father is engaged in vineyard culture. In the family connection, a relative, Pfc. Joe Nishimoto, at one time an employe of the Olds hatchery, who went into United States service from Marion, was killed in action in France Nov. 14, 1944. He was posthumously awarded the Silver Star citation for gallantry in the line of duty.

Others in Play

Those who will take the parts of the other characters of the play include James Rea, Jack Williams, Roxanna Pauling, Ronald Powell, Bernard Lyons, Ralph Hurr, Frank Gegenheimer, Robert Ralston, Marjorie Middleton, Joan Glassmeyer, Betty Parsons, and Jack Hoffman. On the production and stage staff are Richard Indoe, J. C. Scheifler, Marjorie White, Bonnie Harris, Mrs. R. D. Kennedy, Mrs. J. C. Scheifler, Mrs. Relvie Sifritt and Mrs. Ervin Porter. Miss Margaret Huffman is director.

Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor, will give invocation, and special music will be by the boys' octet of Vernon Junior High school under direction of George Lane, and by the combined orchestras of the church led by William Dowler and Harlan Ambrose. A white gift service will be held at the close of the play.

PROSPECT JET BOAT STARTS TO AUSTRALIA

Ship Hanley-Built Fire Craft to New York City.

The 17-ton fireboat built for the Australian government by the Hanley Engineering Service of Prospect is on the way today to New York City on the first leg of a trans-ocean trip to Freemantle, Australia.

The specially designed craft will be placed in service for harbor protection at Freemantle, the largest shipping port on the west coast of Australia.

Loaded on a flat-car Thursday afternoon at the Hanley siding on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, the fireboat was hauled to Marion for transfer to the Erie railroad into New York City.

At New York the boat will be placed aboard the S. S. Pioneer Star for the two-ocean voyage to Australia. The cargo ship is to sail from New York Dec. 24.

The craft, which is 31 feet six inches in length and has a beam of 10 feet, six inches, is equipped with two turret nozzles delivering at capacity 3,000 gallons of water a minute. This would be the approximate equivalent in volume of three of the largest turret nozzles employed on modern fire trucks.

The boat was moved from the company paint shop to the rail siding, approximately a mile distant, by specially designed tractor trailer equipment. The trailer employs its own power hoist and was designed by Hanley and used extensively during the war when the company built 103 boats for the United States Coast Guard. One of the largest trailer devices in this section, it will handle craft up to 40 feet in length.

MARSHALL REPORTS TO TRUMAN TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Secretary of State Marshall returned today from London and went immediately into a cabinet meeting with President Truman to give a first-hand report on the collapse of the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Mr. Truman and other department chiefs welcomed Marshall on his arrival at the national airport at 9 a. m. and drove with him to the White House for the regular Friday cabinet session.

Presumably, the secretary also intended to supply the Chief Executive and the cabinet with an outline of a nationwide radio address he plans at 10 p. m. tonight on the failure of the London mission.

HOUSE TAKES SPEEDY ACTION ON MEASURE

Final Passage of Republican Voluntary Price Curb Bill Completed.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 — The house sent to President Truman without change today the senate-passed bill for voluntary pricing agreements to hold down living costs. Democrats made a futile attempt to alter the measure and give the President authority to order allocation of scarce commodities if necessary, but they were overwhelmed by an almost solid Republican front.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 — Final passage of the Republican-sponsored voluntary price curb bill was virtually assured today when the house ordered it considered immediately under procedure restricting amendments and limiting debate.

House approval is expected to head the legislation toward President Truman's desk by nightfall as the senate passed the bill late yesterday by a 77 to 10 vote.

Only one hour of debate was permitted by the house under procedure which Democrats condemned as "super-gag." The only amendments allowed will be those backed by the banking committee, which has no amendments to offer.

Democrats were given the opportunity of trying to alter the bill through a motion to recommit it. While they planned to try to tack on some amendments similar to those batted down yesterday by the senate, they conceded privately that they were outnumbered and that the bill would be passed by nightfall.

Says Action Expected

Democrats and Republicans alike devoted preliminary discussion to politics until Rep. Smith (D-Va) reminded them that the country expects congress to do something effective about the cost of living.

"We should declare a moratorium on politics for a week or ten days," the Virginian said, "and sit down here just as good Americans."

Smith called the Taft bill "a piece of shadow-boxing" that "doesn't do anything." He said "the profit motive is too deeply ingrained" to expect to submerge it with "frothy talk."

The vote for the "gag" rule was 203 to 143 and, except for a few switches, followed party lines.

Containing several of the less controversial phases of President Truman's 10-point fight-inflation program, but lacking any authority to reimpose consumer rationing or price and wage controls, the bill was snatched from oblivion by some of the fastest legislative footwork in years.

Herbert To Wed Girl He Met In Physician's Office

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 19—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of Ohio will be married Jan. 3 to Miss Mildred Helen Stevenson of Indianapolis.

The approaching climax of a romance that budded in a physician's office was announced today by the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corydon W. Stevenson of Indianapolis.

Herbert and Miss Stevenson became acquainted in the spring of 1946, when she was secretary to the governor's personal physician, Dr. Harlan Wilson, in Columbus.

The governor then was undergoing a treatment of a leg wound suffered when he was a combat flier in France in World War I.

Since then the next "First Lady of Ohio has been the guest of the governor's daughter, Mrs. Metta Stevers, both at the Stevers home in Cleveland and at the executive mansion.

Miss Stevenson accompanied the governor to several football games in Ohio State university stadium this year.

Wedding Arrangements

Ohio's 53-year-old chief executive, who became governor last January after serving as attorney general, and Miss Stevenson, who is 40, will be married at 11 a. m. Jan. 3 in McKee chapel of Tabernacle Presbyterian church at Indianapolis.

Miss Stevenson will come here tomorrow to help Mrs. Stevers in preparations for the wedding.

The ceremony, to be informal, will be performed by the governor's pastor, Rev. Oscar Olsen of the Epworth-Euclid Methodist church in Cleveland. Mr. Olsen will be assisted by the bride's pastor, Dr. Roy Edwing Vale of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church.

The governor's daughter, wife of Dr. C. L. Stevers of Cleveland, will be matron of honor. Governor Herbert will be attended by his eldest son, Daniel J. Herbert, a student at Ohio State university.

With the exception of Gov. and Mrs. Ralph W. Gates of Indiana, only members of the two families will attend. These will include the bride's parents, her uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. W. H. Unversaw of Kokomo, Ind.; her aunts, Mrs. Charles Morris and Miss Ruth Stevenson of Greenwood, Ind.; the governor's daughter and two sons, Daniel and John; his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Herbert of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and his sister Miss Elizabeth Herbert of Cleveland.

The governor and his bride will honeymoon in Florida and other southern states, and will be at home at the executive mansion after Feb. 1.

It will be Herbert's second marriage. The first Mrs. Herbert died Dec. 30, 1945.

Bride Native of Indiana

Miss Stevenson was born in Franklin, Johnston county, Ind., and attended Butler college and the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music in Indianapolis.

She came to Columbus in 1940 and remained until last year, after her parents had moved to Indianapolis, where her father became territorial manager of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet company.

Stevenson was manager of the firm's Columbus branch for several years and the Stevenson family lived on their farm, Coryland,

President Sets Lower Amount Of Help Than Nations Asked

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 — President Truman's blueprint for European recovery calls for less help than the 16 Marshall plan nations asked for, and higher prices for what they do get.

Behind the Chief Executive's message to congress today proposing a $17,000,000,000 four-year assistance program is an exhaustive governmental study overhauling the economic planning done by the Marshall plan nations at Paris in September.

Released by the state department simultaneously with the reading of the President's message to congress, this study notifies Europe that the United States cannot supply as much grain, fats and oils, petroleum, fertilizer, tractor or freight cars as the Paris report requested.

It also suggests that the Paris plans be revised further to:

►Increase Europe's own exports, even though it might mean a slower rise in living standards there.

►Slow down plans for factory, power plant and housing expansion on the ground that excessive "capital formation" means less goods for consumers, lower exports, and inflation.

►Charter 300 ships from the United States temporarily, in addition to the planned purchase of 200 war-built vessels, and reduce Europe's own four-year objective of 15,700,000 tons of ship construction.

But the government report, which carries the full text of the Marshall plan legislation proposed by Mr. Truman, noted further:

"It seems clear that the direction must be away from austerity. • • • In some countries it would mean starvation; in many others it would adversely affect production."

As for American prices, the document gave small comfort to the Paris conferees who spoke hopefully of a 12½ per cent drop below the July 1947 level by 1951 and calculated the cost of European aid accordingly.

Price Rise Since July

The administration report noted that prices already have risen 7½ per cent above last July, while some major export items have soared far beyond—wheat 20 per cent, coal 10 per cent and oil 30 per cent.

In its own estimates, the government used two assumptions: First, the "high" assumption that prices will stay about where they are for the next four years; and second, the "low" assumption that prices will not vary much through June, 1949, and then will drop 7½ per cent in each of the three following years.

Using these and other variable factors, the government arrived at a high estimate for the Marshall plan of $17,000,000,000 and a low estimate of $15,100,000,000.

The report said that in the case of cotton, dried fruit, canned or dried milk, sugar, and tobacco the Paris requests can be approximately met or exceeded.

[illegible]

But the [illegible]

The Marshall plan report was drafted before the agriculture department issued its forecast, which gave a far more favorable outlook for fall-sown winter wheat than had been expected a few weeks ago. This crop will yield 838,705,000 bushels, the department said, and officials guessed that spring wheat might add 275,000,000 bushels to the total.

In the fiscal and crop year ending June 30, 1949, Europe can expect to import only 1,100,000 metric tons of fats and oils, instead of 1,900,000; 1,800,000 metric tons of meat instead of 2,300,000; 1,800,000 metric tons of meat instead of 2,300,000; 180,000 metric tons of nitrogen instead of 230,000 tons, the document said.

And as for farm machinery, the government figured the United States and Canada could spare only $637,000,000 worth in four years, as against the Paris estimate of $1,200,000,000.

But the report expressed doubt that European farms could be mechanized as rapidly as the Paris planners hoped, even if the equipment could be made available. The report said much of the machinery asked was of a heavy type suitable only for large farms, of which there are few in

EXPECT ACTION TO NAME SPECULATORS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Congress seemed ready today—barring a last minute change of heart by house members—to turn the publicity spotlight on speculators who have been buying and selling the food and other products that have helped skyrocket the cost of living.

A welter of political charges left one unassailable fact—senate Republicans and Democrats are unanimously agreed Secretary of Agriculture Anderson ought to tell all he knows about the men who deal in the commodities markets for a profit.

Whether the opposing political parties could agree on the same objective in the house remained to be determined.

Investment Over 4¼ Years Urged For "Just Peace"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—President Truman asked congress today to commit America to a $17,000,000,000 European recovery program and a "bold" defense of free men against "totalitarian pressures."

He proposed that this vast sum be invested over four and a quarter years as a "major step in our Nation's quest for a just and lasting peace."

As the first installment, he asked for authority to spend $6,800,000,000 in the first 15 months.

His message outlining the largest spending plan in the nation's peacetime history went to congress in the closing hours of its special session. Mr. Truman urged swift action when the regular session starts in January, so the recovery program can begin April 1.

He predicted that the "determined opposition" already announced by European Communists will result in further incitements to strike "for the purpose of bringing chaos in the hope that it will pave the way for totalitarian control."

Even American security and the American way of life are at stake, the Chief Executive declared.

Wants To "Finish Job"

He asked congress to tip its "grave and significant decision" in favor of the "Marshall plan" to finish a job on which he said $15,000,000,000 already has been spent since the war ended. The decision, he said, will:

"Determine in large part whether the free nations of the world can look forward with hope to a peaceful and prosperous future as independent states, or whether they must live in poverty and in fear of selfish totalitarian aggression."

Along with his message, the President forwarded to congress a bill to authorize the $17,000,000,000 expenditure and set up the machinery for carrying out the long-range recovery program. He sent along, too, a 241-page analysis prepared by experts from dozens of federal agencies.

Plans for Administration

To manage the program, Mr. Truman wants to appoint a $20,000 a year administrator with broad powers. There would be a deputy drawing $17,500. And to run the European end of the show, there would be a roving ambassador making $25,000 a year.

In addition, the administrator would have as his top assistants 10 men making up to $15,000 and 50 more making as much as $10,000.

However, instead of one-man control of the program, a special house committee on foreign aid already has proposed an eight-man board, so the Truman proposal may be in for trouble on that score.

Congressional shuddering was in prospect, too, over the size of the bill.

But the President said that big as the cost will be, it is only 5 per cent of the cost of the war and "less than 3 per cent of our national income during the life of the program."

Viewed as "Investment"

"As an investment toward the peace and security of the world and toward the realization of hope and confidence in a better way of life for the future," he declared, "this cost is small indeed."

Mr. Truman said he was recommending the program to congress "in full confidence of its wisdom and necessity as a major step in our nation's quest for a just and lasting peace."

As a joint undertaking of the United States and a group of European countries, he said, the program "is proof that free men can effectively join together to defend their free institutions against totalitarian pressures, and to promote better standards of life for all their peoples."

As outlined in the documents sent to congress, "much" of the aid would be in the form of gifts, some would be in loans.

There was no breakdown on how the $17,000,000,000 would be split among the various countries. There was no estimate, either, of how much the United States might get back.

Would Get Materials

Deals are supposed to be worked out for getting from the receiving countries supplies of scarce, strategic materials to store up in the United States. But for these, this country would pay cash.

Both in quantity and in cost to the United States, the European nations would get less than they requested when they met in Paris last fall and drew up a list of needs. Already prices are up on the things they asked for.

The $17,000,000,000 is a round number.

Depending chiefly on whether prices go up or down, government experts estimate the actual cost to this country might dip as low as [illegible] or climb as high as [illegible], not including [illegible] for western Germany [illegible] administration is [illegible] separately for 15 months. They took their cue from Marshall, who in a speech at Harvard university last June outlined his plan for throwing American dollars behind Europe's efforts to help herself.

Taking their cue from Moscow, eastern European nations stayed out. But Mr. Truman left a way open for any of them—even Russia—to get into the game if they will accept the rules.

He said, too, that while the emphasis now is on helping Europe, the United States is not forgetting the importance of economic cooperation with her Latin American neighbors. And next year, he said, congress will be handed a plan for economic help for China.

The President did not mention Russia or her satellites by name. But he let them know he doesn't like the way they have been acting.

He said the purposes of the Marshall plan are "in complete harmony" with the purposes of the United Nations charter while:

"Attempts by any nation to prevent or sabotage European recovery for selfish ends are clearly contrary to these purposes."

Your Good Health

Constant Ringing in the Ears

Nearly everyone has experienced, at least briefly, the sensation known as "ringing in the ears" but some people are troubled in this way almost constantly.

This condition is known to doctors as tinnitus and is used to include all varieties of head noises, whether they arise from some trouble in the ear itself or from a disturbance elsewhere.

Head noises due to something wrong with the ear are always accompanied by some loss of hearing, at least for the time that the ringing in the ear occurs. In the vast majority of these cases, the ringing noise results from a disturbance of the circulation of blood within the ear. When this situation exists, treatment with preparations which dilate or enlarge the blood vessels and improve the circulation should be helpful.

In some cases the condition is due to a sensitivity or allergy. These patients are often sensitive to histamine, a substance which is found in larger amounts than normal in those who are allergic. Those patients who are histamine-sensitive can be discovered by injecting a small amount of histamine under the skin and noting whether or not a reaction, in the form of a red swelling develops.

Tinnitus may come on gradually or suddenly. In those instances in which the tinnitus comes on suddenly, accompanied by a considerable degree of deafness, it is likely that a severe blood vessel spasm has occurred which has produced much injury to the hearing mechanism.

One of the treatments which is often employed for tinnitus is the blowing of air through the eustachian tube, which connects the throat with the middle ear. If the ringing in the ears is due to blood vessel spasm, this type of treatment will not be of any help. It is useful only in those cases in which it can be shown that the eustachian tube is blocked.

Treatment for tinnitus, due to blood vessel spasm, is the giving of preparations which cause the blood vessels to dilate. One of the most satisfactory substances for this purpose is nicotine acid. Of course, it can only be employed under the direction of a physician and in doses which he recommends. In those patients who are sensitive to histamine, the nicotinic acid is not of any help, and may even make the condition worse.

TO ASK INDICTMENT IN TRIPLE SLAYING

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 18—Detective Capt. Ralph Murphy said he will ask a grand jury indictment of first degree murder today against James Osinski, 37-year-old ex-convict, in the triple slaying of the latter's wife and parents.

Osinski had been sought since Wednesday when the bodies of his estranged wife, Loretta, 21, and her parents, Raymond Ditmyer, 66, and his wife, 64, were found.

Another death resulted from the tragedy yesterday when John Osinski, 1, one of the couple's two children found huddled near the bodies, died of malnutrition and exposure.

The hunted man's car was found abandoned yesterday near Fayette in Fulton county and brought here for examination by police. Fulton County Sheriff Lester Irwin said the vehicle had been there since Saturday, the day on which the three were believed killed.

Police orders, meanwhile, were broadcast in neighboring states for Osinski's arrest.

Santa AND THE GOOD BOY

CHAPTER 14

Mr. Sleek Burns the Scarf

HE WENT "PFFT!" BLOWING THE POWDER ALL OVER TOM.

POOR Tom Clover!

He sat in the police station while the police searched his pockets and looked in his shoes and under his shirt and inside his hat but they could not find the Bajoluka scarf.

The distraught jeweler took Tom's hand. "Son," he begged. "Only tell me where the precious thing is and I will have them set you free."

"I don't know!" cried Tom. "I have told you over and over: I do not know."

The police captain said, "Think it over, young man. We are going to lock you up and you will have plenty of time to remember what you did."

Then the police led Tom down stairs and locked him in a prison cell. He sat down on the tiny cot and put his head in his hands and after a while he began to cry—oh, not out loud, but just a little—quietly to himself.

Because, after all, it was nearly Christmas day and all he had wanted was to decorate a tree to win the President's prize for his mother. And now he was in prison and could never in the world find a star to hang on his tree.

"And I guess they'll never set me free," he thought bitterly. "For how could I possibly tell them where the scarf is!"

WELL, just at that moment, there was a scuffling sound under the bed. Someone sneezed and wheezed and coughed and suddenly Rudolph appeared!

"Why!" cried Tom swallowing his tears. "You are the fairy Santa sent to tell me where the red sheep grazed!"

"Right," said Rudolph, who was only 4 inches tall "And now he has sent me to help you again. But I declare my cold is so bad I really should be home in bed."

"Oh, yes," said Tom with sympathy. "I can see that. But, oh! if you only knew how much I need you!"

"Indeed, I do know," sniffed Rudolph. "And I am glad to say I can help you because—" he stopped to sneeze and wipe his nose. "Because—I know who has the scarf!"

"Why!" cried Tom joyfully. "If I can show them the scarf the police will let me go!"

"Your elegant lady friend has it," said Rudolph and he didn't explain that the "lady" was really Mr. Sleek in disguise. "I shall take you to her."

"But," protested Tom. "How can I get out of here?"

"Be patient and you will see.

Then the little fairy reached in his pocket and drew out a box of talcum powder. He poured the powder in his palm, held his hand to his lips and went "pfft!" blowing the powder all over Tom.

And then Tom got smaller and smaller and smaller until in a moment he, too, was only four inches tall!

"Oh, my!" he cried in alarm. "Will I ever be big again?"

"Certainly," replied Rudolph. "As soon as you wash off the powder. Now follow me!"

THE two tiny creatures slipped through the bars of the window and climbed down to the prison yard. They darted under the gate and ran into the street. A taxi cab came cruising by. Rudolph and Tom climbed on the fender and rode along as nice as you please.

Presently they left the car and went into a hotel and if anyone saw them he thought they were mice and complained to the manager. They went to third floor and climbed through a keyhole and dropped to the floor.

"There!" whispered Rudolph. "Is your elegant friend."

Tom looked and he saw Mr. Sleek still dressed in his elegant woman's clothes. Mr. Sleek was bent over the fireplace stirring up cinders.

Then Tom gasped for he saw that the cinders were the ashes of the Bajoluka scarf!

"I'll take a few ashes," muttered Mr. Sleek to himself. "And hide them in the mother's house. Then boy and mother will hang for the crime!"

The wicked creature laughed out loud. "Then Santa's 'good boy' will be gone forever and Santa Land will be mine."

KIWANIANS HEAR TALK ON CHRISTMAS

Rev. Hollensen Brings Annual Seasonal Message.

The annual Christmas message at the Kiwanis club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding was given by Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran church and a Kiwanian.

Rev. Hollensen told the members he believes they all become boys again at Christmas and that they look forward to the joyous occasion. He admonished them to look up to the star and to think what it means in spite of the fear which confronts the world at the present time.

Reviewing the promises of the Old Testament, he spoke of the promises which were given from the time of Adam, through the time of Isaac, Jacob, Joseph and up to the birth of the Christ Child.

Rev. Hollensen stated the Christmas spirit means God's son who came into the world as a Savior and also means that God rules the universe. God's hand is in all human events, Rev. Hollensen declared, and said that the Old Testament shows the mystery of God and promises. He explained that God still rules the world in spite of men, and that he did promise we would have a Savior in human form.

Rev. R. W. Faulkner, representing the Marion Ministerial Association, was a guest and was presented the result of the recent church census taken by the Kiwanis club. The presentation was made by Dr. G. C. Nuetzel, chairman of the Kiwanis church committee. Results of the census were as follows: 6,500 homes showed church members and church preferences; 436 homes, no church connections; 33, refused information; 20 vacant homes; and 1,030, not at home. A total of 200 workers participated in taking the census.

A. T. Allen, chairman of the committee which is to man a Salvation Army kettle Saturday, designated times to the workers. The Kiwanis kettle is to be located in front of the south side Kresge store.

Next week, the club will meet jointly with the Lions club Monday noon at Hotel Harding as the regular meeting of the club falls on Christmas.

Guests were Floyd E. Stinson of Euclid, and Harold Denzer Jr. of Marion.

LOYAL DAUGHTERS CLASS HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

An annual Christmas party was held by the Loyal Daughters class of Prospect Street Methodist church Thursday night at the home of Miss Frances Haas at 202 Forest Lawn boulevard. Miss Ruth Carr served as associate hostess.

Devotions in charge of Miss Haas and group singing of "Silent Night" opened the meeting. Plans were made to have secret sisters during the coming year and names were drawn. Two large baskets were filled for a needy family for Christmas, and a box of candy was prepared to be given to the Marion County Children's home for Christmas.

Following the meeting a gift exchange was held around a lighted Christmas tree, and Miss Ruth Schott, class teacher, was presented a gift from the group. The house was decorated for the party in keeping with the Yuletide season and refreshments were served by the hostesses from a table centered with a large white candle surrounded with greenery. The next meeting will be a potluck supper, Jan. 16, at the church at which time scrap books will be made.

What France Fears

EVIDENCE adduced at the current Krupp war crimes trial explains France's reluctance to see an industrially strong Germany take its place in the postwar community of European nations.

The trial has brought out that only 5 per cent of Germany's war potential was dismantled after World War I because the Germans insisted the remainder could be used for peacetime purposes. Germany passed a law in 1927 forbidding manufacture of armaments other than those authorized by the Allied commission, but it was another "mere scrap of paper." With a staff of only 383 Allied representatives to check on 7,000 factories and a population of 60,000,000, the Germans began to manufacture armaments as soon as they foresaw a use for them.

The situation in western Germany now, of course, is different. Considerably more than 5 per cent of the war potential has been destroyed or dismantled, but many vast industrial installments have been virtually untouched. The war didn't devastate the Ruhr valley and there is plenty of evidence it has caused no important change in German temperament.

The French have no desire to see the German industrial machine rolling again, even on peacetime work, and now that the division of Germany is assured, France's noisy Communist minority will raise even louder shouts about the danger of building up western Germany.

Part of the Allied task will be to allay French fears by instilling democratic processes in western Germany and endeavoring to make them take root. But even more important, the Allies must maintain surveillance over western zone industry so there will be no justification for French fears of another "furor Teutonicus" rising phoenix-like from the ashes of the old.

A Very Real Danger

FIRE this week swept the National Guard armory at Kenton, imperiling the business district. A few days before, flames razed a Canton garage, killing one man.

The cause of both fires was inflammable solvents being used as cleaning fluid. They rate just below discarded cigarets as a contributing factor to the nation's annual fire toll of 10,000 lives and $500,000,000 of property.

Those who use inflammable detergents for cleaning are tempting fate. The fumes from such agents are heavy and spread along the floor just as water does. When they reach a spark or flames, the fire flashes back to the source and there is an explosion.

Those who use such cleaning agents endanger their own lives as well as the lives of others. Warnings have had little effect. Perhaps Ohio's two fires this week will provide more graphic proof of the danger.

An Old Man Goes On Trial

TRIAL of Knut Hamsun in Norway as a Nazi sympathizer will be followed with interest by those who have read the novels of this Nobel prize winner.

His "Hunger," "The Growth of the Soil" and "The Woman at The Well" have won him a large following of readers in the English-speaking world, for his striking though simple prose style bridged the language barrier. The love of nature reflected in his writings is reminiscent of Thoreau, but his almost Russian preoccupation with morbid types places the end product of his efforts nearer Leningrad than Concord.

News stories give Hamsun's age as 88. Admirers of his novels will prefer to believe that whatever Nazi sympathies he had are attributable to the vagaries of senility rather than to any deep-seated conviction.

44 Years After

IT'S only coincidental that the Army's new experimental jet bomber made its first flight in the week during which the 44th anniversary of the Wright's Kittyhawk adventure was observed.

The Army's new ring-tailed, super-everything bomber has six jet engines, plus 19 booster units for takeoffs. It is the first of two experimental craft costing about $10,300,000.

At 76, Orville Wright has lived to see the comparatively simple plane he and his brother invented develop into a monster of frightening complexity. A man of peace, he doubtless has wondered whether he has inflicted a Frankenstein on mankind. But those early experiments lay along a path on which man was inexorably moving. Discovery of heavier-than-air flight was inevitable.

Civilization is measured by the manner in which men utilize their communications systems. If it is to continue to progress, mankind will find in the Wrights' invention a bond which makes the whole world kin.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

As Durante Would Say: "What a Campaign!"

LADIES and gentlemen, I offer you the greatest show on earth, beating everything before and since. This is the most startling exhibition of all time, beating the white elephant and Tom Thumb and the two-headed lady. It provides us with the most exciting example of democracy at work, proving to one and all that here anything can happen.

As Republican candidates we have Ike Eisenhower for president and Harold Stassen for vice president. For the third party, we have Henry Wallace for president and John L. Lewis for vice president. As for the Democrats, we leave them strictly on their own with Harry Truman.

SOKOLSKY

Do you think I've gone nuts? Hold your horses, gentle reader. Be not harsh. Let's analyze the picture. No man in this country has worked so hard at getting the presidential nomination as Harold Stassen. He set out way back in 1944 to get 1948. It has been a long pull. As it stands now, there is little question but that he can make secretary of commerce should the Republicans win. The biggest mistake he made was to get tied up with some of the Morgan partners. Republicans remember the Morgan influence behind Willkie and want no more of it.

However, should Eisenhower be nominated, he will need a vice president who is at least a Republican Stassen would do very well in those circumstances. Besides, Stassen could make Eisenhower's speeches for him. Stassen's fault is not that he does not know the subject; it is rather that he maneuvered himself out of the running. He has been an able governor and certainly has commented on every subject that has come before the public. It would be a good choice for Eisenhower, except that the public would wonder who is the candidate.

John L. the "Hater"

As for John L. Lewis, he must pursue his nates. Few men are as keen-minded as John L., but he is psychologically a hater. When crossed, he forgets everything but his grudges. Normally, he is a fine gentleman, a capitalist, and a Republican. The trouble is that he does not stay normal long.

His present grudge is against Truman and the Democrats for letting the Taft-Hartley bill through. After all, Truman vetoed the tax bills twice and twice the veto stuck; he vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill once and it was passed over the veto. Do you get it? The Democrats could have killed the Taft-Hartley bill together with some immature Republicans who managed to get into the senate. And Truman did not do it—so Truman must out.

No man in this country is more antagonistic to Communists and Communism than John L. Lewis, but he has used them when it served his private purposes. When he organized the CIO he hired squads of them to found the new unions although he kept them out of his United Mine Workers. Then, when pursuing a grudge, he chose Willkie against Roosevelt and passed out of the CIO; he then attacked the Communists in it whom he, himself, had brought in. That's Lewis.

Completely Out

So now he is out of the CIO; out of the AFL; out with Truman; against the Republicans and Democrats and rarin' to go. Go where? Apparently there is no place to go but with Henry Wallace and his Kremlin pals. (Judge Fuld will note that I am careful to live within the metes and bounds of his Solomon-like decision not to call anyone by his right name unless I can prove he has no other.)

Anyhow, that would be a magnificent ticket, Wallace and Lewis, if they could last through a campaign together. Lewis might go on strike, while Henry would continue to talk about the depression that is just around the corner.

Nevertheless, I look forward to a campaign of Eisenhower and Stassen versus Wallace and Lewis with Truman standing by to walk off with the gate. Just as an aside, I wonder if Eisenhower will continue to wear the Army uniform after he gets the nomination. He looks so good in it. Maybe we can get all the candidates to wear some kind of uniform, would Wallace's be a Cossack costume?

What a campaign! As Schnozzle Durante would say "What a campaign!"

Merry Christmas And A Political New Year

Congress goes home today.

Who said there wasn't any Santa Claus?

This session has been extraordinary in name but ordinary in performance.

It can count its accomplishments on the toes of a sloth.

It passed European relief . . . but with more strings than you'll get on a $3 mop.

And about all it did in the field of inflation was prove that you don't get much representation for your money these days, either.

It's not that Congress' heart isn't in the right place . . . It's just that its mind is already on the stump.

Molotov Lives in the Past

By Raymond Moley

MOLOTOV'S contemptuous remarks about capitalism at the London conference omitted an important piece of background. His speeches marked the end of the first century of Marxist Communism. And his theories added nothing to the Marx-Engels doctrine. Communism has learned nothing and forgotten nothing. And it has completely overlooked the revolution in capitalism over the past hundred years.

It deserves to be added that it was in a country where capitalism was most highly developed a century ago that Karl Marx fought, spoke and wrote his attacks on capitalism. That same Marx was permitted to contribute his stuff to New York papers. The freedom denied Marx on the continent and offered in England still exists, and in its atmosphere Vishinsky and Molotov are able to utter their fantastic propaganda.

Thus, there remain, after a hundred years, freedom in England and America and obsolete economics in Russia.

Notable Changes

It is hardly necessary to remind Americans of the revolution in capitalism that has marked this century. On the material side, technology has changed everything, or almost everything That is self-evident On the side of management and ownership, equally important changes are present. What Marxists would call a new "class" has emerged—the managers of industry. Ownership or capital exercises vastly less control or direction of business. The manager is a clearing station where produced wealth is distributed. Part goes to labor, part to the consumer and, to a decreasing degree, a share goes to owners. Only the great skill of management has prevented this share from being blotted out, because greater wealth has been produced in sufficient quantity to give labor more, the consumer more and still leave something for investment.

Government Spreads Out

In addition, government has moved into private capitalistic enterprise. The conduct of business in its buying and selling, in its bookkeeping, in its distribution of the money derived from sales, in its relation to labor—all is controlled by law and government. Moreover, government exacts taxes of proportions unbelievable a century ago. It effectively prevents the rise of great fortunes or great incomes.

The owner is reduced to a status of trusteeship — a status which both ownership and management recognize. The principle of the responsibility to the public is scarcely ever denied these days. And, it may be added, most of the great fortunes that were either in their infancy in 1917 or unborn have found their way into institutions that have extended benefits around the world—in scientific progress, in research in the prevention and healing of disease and in education.

Molotov's "Dead World"

All this is rigidly blacked out in the Molotov cosmos. His statesmanship reveals a fatal human trait—the facts of the world are always racing far ahead of a politician's comprehension of the facts. His ballyhoo is an echo of the past The world of his ideas is a dead world.

And no group of politicians in the world are so afflicted with this retarded mentality as the ghostly shadows of Marx in the Politburo.

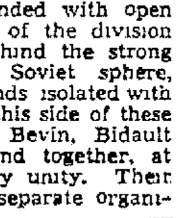
Another Futile Conference

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

AS WAS forecast in this space many weeks ago, the London conference has ended with open acknowledgement of the division of the world. Behind the strong barriers of the Soviet sphere, Molotov now stands isolated with his puppets. On this side of these barriers, Messrs. Bevin, Bidault and Marshall stand together, at least in temporary unity. Their next step is the separate organization of western Germany, so plainly necessitated by what has just occurred.



ALSOP

In these circumstances, the unity and strength of the west are all-important. The only hope for the future is that the Kremlin, impressed by western unity and strength, will ultimately change its policy, which must otherwise lead to the most terrible consequences. Furthermore, the most essential element in the unity and strength of the west is a powerful and intimate Anglo-American partnership. If that partnership is ever permitted to weaken or dissolve, the way will be open for the Kremlin to attain its objectives without effective opposition. Such, at any rate, is the analysis of the situation adopted by the makers of American policy.

Major Factors

All this being so, a special interest attaches to the problem of the Anglo-American partnership, which has been explored at some length in these reports. Before proceeding to conclusions, it may be well to run over rapidly this problem's main factors.

▶Wherever their own courage and determination can tell, the British are now visibly turning the post-war corner. They are, therefore, on a perfectly cold-blooded estimate, partners who can be invested in without undue risk.

▶Their shortage of capital in general, and their acute shortage of hard assets in particular, have implications which must be squarely faced, however The truth is the British do not have the cash in hand, for the present, to carry all the costly burdens which the Anglo-American partnership involves. For many reasons, it is impossible for the United States to assume these burdens. Fortunately the capital shortage is the only real difficulty. Thus it is essential for the United States to supply the fresh capital which will place Britain on a footing of permanent strength. This is urgent.

▶In the special sphere of military strategy, the Anglo-American partnership is already operating with the utmost intimacy and smoothness. But this is not true in the spheres of political and economic policy. In these spheres, because the makers of British and American policy have been dealing with each other at arms' length, there have been many petty irritations and breakdowns of co-operation.

▶Without a supply of fresh capital from the United States, the British will be driven, perforce, to try to devise a new foreign policy—which can only, in the last analysis, be a policy of surrender to the Soviets. Yet even if the capital is forthcoming from America, another major difficulty will still remain to be surmounted. From Attlee and Bevin to the British man in the street, every one in this country fears that acceptance of American aid may entail loss of Britain's independence of action. The fear is distinctly neurotic, to be sure.

Partnership In Danger

Britain was not tied to our chariot wheels after Pearl Harbor, when the relative British and American contributions to the war effort, in men, money and goods, were proportionally about the same as the relative contributions to the peace effort must now be But unless our dealings with the British are marked by a rare degree of wisdom, tact and forbearance, this British fear of what is thought of as "American bullying" is capable of causing the Anglo-American partnership to break down. The wartime atmosphere must be revived.

All these factors are clearly in the minds of Secretary Marshall and his staff. Indeed, the signs suggest that a good deal has already been accomplished, here in London, to place the Anglo-American partnership on a firmer footing than in the past.

None the less, it is clear that well-thought-out functional steps will have to be taken before the two countries can go forward together in full mutual confidence in each other's objectives, and ability to attain these objectives. Whatever these steps may be, they must assure more regular consultations and more continuous communication of information between the two governments The frictions and misunderstandings that have arisen to date can almost all be traced to a single cause —ignorance, and the suspicion caused by ignorance.

1—Give us the Uneasy Moment for the Eisenhower!
2—Choose Your President for the Love of Ike
3—Down the Pike With Fighting Ike!
4—He Came Through When Things Were Worse.
5—The White House Needs a Fighting Fr

9—Spike the Snafu With Ike.

Are you filled with aggravation?

"Old Philadelphia"

Trans-Jordan's capital of Amman, scene of Arab disturbances over partitioning of Palestine has risen at the desert's edge among the ruins of an ancient Philadelphia, says the National Geographic Society.

These ruins from the principal attraction of the modern Arab and Circassian town, which was called Philadelphia by its Egyptian conqueror — Ptolemy Philadelphus — about 2,000 years before the founding of its Pennsylvania namesake.

Toppled walls and fallen columns are strewn on the hilltop where Ptolemy built a citadel Not far distant are the well-preserved ruins of a Roman amphitheater carved from the rocky hillside

The town itself is built on both sides of the little River Amman, whose banks are green with willow and poplars. Houses and shops fill the valley and straggle up the hills; the latter are filled with caves, in some of which families live as their ancestors did.

Amman's main street winds around the foot of the hill once crowned by the citadel, whose walls were made of uncemented stone blocks Amid this rubble only one building has remained in even partial form—a highly decorated Moslem structure of a period later than Ptolemy.

Across a modern bridge from the main part of Amman is the Roman amphitheater, which accommodated upwards of 7,000 persons. Now goats browse among the ancient foundations.

From Jerusalem, visitors reach Amman by automobile over a modern road which crosses the sizzling valley of the River Jordan. Amman is about 30 miles east of that famous stream the boundary between Palestine and Trans-Jordan. A railroad runs north and south through the capital.

Trans-Jordan's estimated 400,000 people averaging fewer than a dozen to the square mile, represent about 35 principal tribes.

Roosevelt Trees To Be Cut Down

By The United Press

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—A pair of pine trees which the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt refused to have cut down at the Little White House here now have been doomed. They will be cut up into souvenir pieces.

The trees, standing just outside Mr. Roosevelt's bedroom window, have been ordered felled because they are lightly rooted and officials of the white frame memorial fear that a strong wind would send them crashing against the roof.

During his lifetime, the late President has them braced instead of removing them.

The wood will be fashioned into souvenirs for sale at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

A Christmas tableau portraying Joseph, Mary, the Christ Child and shepherd was depicted by Mr. and Mrs. George Stafford and their children Kathryn and Roger, and completing the program was the singing of carols by Miss Helen Atchinson, Mrs. W. T. Buchanan and Mrs. Russell Dunlap, costumed as carolers. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a large Christmas tree decorated with snowballs and gay lights. A gift exchange was held following the program.

Miss Reta Van Meter, president, presided at the colorfully decorated table.

The following Beta Sigma Phis were guests at the installation service: Miss Mary Clark, president of Eta Chapter, and Mrs. Lillian Gibbon, president of City Council.

Bierce-Seiter Wedding Read At Church Here

A GOWN of duchess ivory satin was worn by Miss Betty Patricia Bierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bierce of 210 Windsor street, when she became the bride Sunday, Dec. 7, of Warren H. Seiter. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Seiter of the Richland pike. The couple repeated their vows in a double ring ceremony at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Prospect Street Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. Henry Maag, officiated, and the custom of open church was observed.

The basque waist of the bride's gown was styled with a round neckline with a silk net yoke trimmed with wide alencon lace, and was button trimmed down the back. The leg o'mutton sleeves ended in points over the hands, and the skirt extended into a long train. Her veil of bridal illusion was held in place with a halo of lace and lilies of the valley. She wore a single strand of pears, given to her by the late Mrs. Frank Reasoner, and she carried a white Bible topped with a purple orchid with white ribbon streamers tied with greenery.

Preceding the bride to the altar was her sister, Mrs. Ray E. Lee of Marion, as matron of honor, Miss Barbara Burke and Miss Norma Lusch as bridesmaids, Carol Ann Freshwater of North Lewisburg and Susie Lusch as flower girls, and Tommy Lusch, twin-brother of Susie Lusch, as ring bearer. The candles on the altar were lighted by Miss Ruth Lyons of Bowling Green and Miss Roslyn Rissler of Ann Arbor, Mich.

All wore princess style gowns of velvet fashioned with a peplum pointed back which fell into a drape effect at the side. Mrs. Lee was in American Beauty with silver sequin trim and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of yellow carnations with yellow ribbon. Miss Burke and Miss Lusch wore an aqua shade, single strand of pearls, and carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink carnations with pink ribbon. The flower girls were in gold velvet and carried miniature bouquets like those of the matron of honor and bridesmaids. All wore long mitts and juliet caps to match their gowns.

Harold Seiter, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and ushers were Robert Robertson of Columbus, Wilbur Flach and Dwight Martin of Marion.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bierce chose a mulberry colored dress with sequin trim with which she combined gray accessories. Mrs. Seiter wore a blue dress with tiny nailhead trim and black and white accessories. Each wore a corsage of white roses.

The altar of the church was banked with palms with a bouquet of large white mums and greenery in the center. Lighted candles in two seven branch candelabra were at either side. The family pews in the center aisle were marked with white satin bows.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Robert Rice, organist, and Robert Rice, soloist. Mrs. Rice's selections included "Always," Berlin, "Stardust," Carmichael, "Ave Maria," Gounod, "Oh Promise Me," DeKoven, "Indian Love Call," Friml, "Intermezzo," Provost, and the traditional wedding marches. Mr. Rice sang "I Love You Truly," Bond, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert, and "Because," D'Hardelot. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. Rice sang "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

A reception in the church social rooms for 125 people followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with Southern smilax, greenery and pompons and lighted by white tapers in two three-branch candelabra. The large three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom standing before a miniature wedding bell. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Wilbur Flach, Mrs. Dale Willis, Mrs. Alice Mittenbuhler, Miss Clara Mae Seiter of New York City and Miss Dorthea Seiter, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Grace Crizer, Miss Joan Corbin, Mrs. C. B. Shetterly, Mrs. Fred P. Haas and Miss Frances Haas.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the eastern states, Mrs. Seiter was wearing a cinnamon brown dress with sequin trim and brown accessories. She completed her costume with a light gray coat and her bridal orchid.

Mrs. Seiter is a graduate of Harding High school and Marion Business college. She is employed at the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Mr. Seiter, a graduate of Pleasant school, is engaged in farming.

The couple are residing in a newly furnished home on the Richland pike.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were compacts, and the bridegroom gave his best man and ushers traveling kits.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Milford Schmidt and daughter of Findlay, Mr. and Mrs. James Freshwater and daughter of North Lewisburg, Mr. and Mrs. R. Benton of Ostrander, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robertson of Columbus.

In Plain Words

[illegible] the second of two stories [illegible] a field with [illegible] President's commission [illegible] education finds great [illegible]

WASHINGTON

ADULT education means only [illegible] grown people, most of [illegible] working hours, try to [illegible] schooling or learning. [illegible] would include those who [illegible] finished their regular schooling [illegible] those who haven't.

[illegible] the things they study range [illegible] a correspondence course in engineering to class work in grammar [illegible] group discussion in English literature.

The special commission which President Truman set up to study the whole problem of higher education has a good deal to say [illegible] adult education.

The commission is very critical of what the colleges and universities are doing or failing to do about it [illegible]

On these grounds: that the best citizens are educated thinking citizens and all citizens ought to get a better chance for learning than they're getting now.

MARLOW

In a report which it issued this week the commission said in brief:

1. There's not enough adult education.

2. Colleges and universities don't seem to realize how important a part of their work adult education should be.

3 It's time they started doing more about it.

Roughly, there are four kinds of adult education:

1. Evening courses in colleges and universities, on the school grounds.

2. Resident extension courses. This means teachers go out to instruct groups in homes or some meeting place off the college campus.

3. Correspondence courses, which means education by mail.

4. Informal instruction, such as a university can do over its own radio station.

BUT WHO DOES THE TEACHING? Teachers who take on adult education at night to make extra money after teaching in colleges or universities by day.

How well do they do it? The commission says that "candidly" many of them try to make it as easy on themselves as possible. The commission says:

"This state of affairs can not be permitted to continue. The colleges and universities should elevate adult education to a position of equal importance with any other of their functions. * * *

"Adult education, along with undergraduate and graduate education, should become the responsibility of every department or college of the university.

"It should be the duty of the English faculty or the physics faculty, for instance, to teach English or physics not just to those who come to the campus but to every one in the community or state, who wants to learn or can be persuaded to learn English or physics.

"To this degree every college and university should become a 'community college.' Then extension teaching would be accounted a part of the regular teaching load and would receive its due share of faculty energy and interest."

THIS WOULD MEAN a college or university would have to increase, many times over, the job of education it is doing now.

It would mean more teachers and more money. What's blocking all this? Says the commission:

The main block is higher education's failure to realize the role it should be playing in a democratic society, a fuller role than now.

This would mean—and it's what the commission is shooting at—that the universities would take education to the people wherever they are to be found.

In this way, colleges and universities would be reaching more people and therefore would be a lot more useful in their community, whether it's a city or a state.

To sum up, the commission says:

Colleges and universities are thinking far too much in terms of the boys and girls of school age who are going to colleges and universities and not enough about adult people who want, or need, more education.

The third gunman rifled the cafe's cash drawer and register and took DeMarco's wallet.

The car in which they fled later was recovered a short distance away.

A few hours after the $5,600 robbery, three bandits also held up the Friendly Tavern, herded proprietor Albert Vanek and three customers down the basement stairs and escaped with $1,800 from the cafe's safe.

G.O.P. TAX CUT HITS NEW SNAG

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Another White House road block hove into sight today for the G O P. attempt to slash taxes $5,600,000,000 a year.

Assertions by Rep Knutson (R-Minn) that his bill is "veto proof" were in sharp contrast to a renewal of President Truman's stand against any tax reduction now.

The implication was obvious that the tax measure might meet the same fate as two others passed at the last regular session of congress. Mr. Truman vetoed both of them

He said then debt reduction must come first and anyway the bills gave too much of the tax relief to the wealthy

Knutson apparently based his "veto proof" label for the new version on the contention that it would give 77 per cent of the total tax reduction to persons with taxable incomes under $4,000 and only 23 per cent to those making more.

But at the President's news conference yesterday a reporter asked whether reports that the government will have a $7,000,000,000 surplus for the current fiscal year ending June 30 would justify a tax cut.

Mr. Truman said no

The Chief Executive declined, however, to say definitely whether he would oppose any tax cut next year. He said his state of the union message to congress next month will answer that.

17 BILLIONS

at barring recovery in Europe, Mr. Truman added:

"The next few years can determine whether the free countries of Europe will be able to preserve their heritage of freedom

"If Europe fails to recover, the people of these countries might be driven to the philosophy of despair—the philosophy which contends that their basic wants can be met only by the surrender of their basic rights to totalitarian control.

"Such a turn of events would constitute a shattering blow to peace and stability in the world. It might well compel us to modify our own economic system and to forego, for the sake of our own security, the enjoyment of many of our freedoms and privileges."

The President said a European comeback depends on two essentials:

▶That the nations take "vigorous action" to help themselves.

▶That they get sufficient outside aid to supply the margin of victory for recovery.

While most of this aid must come from the United States, he said, total U. S. exports to the entire world next year are expected to be no bigger than in the past 12 months.

But even this level of shipments, Mr. Truman said, will have "an important impact on our markets" So he put in a one-sentence repeat request that congress enact his 10-point program to fight inflation at home.

The President said the 16 recovery program nations will finance most of the things they import themselves In terms of value, the vital imports they cannot pay for themselves, he said, will represent only about 5 per cent of their total national production These, he said, will mean the difference between "every-deepening stagnation and progressive improvement.

Essentially, he said, recovery is a European problem that can be solved only by increased production America, he said, cannot supply relief indefinitely, so it is seeking practical ways to eliminate Europe's need for it

But our deepest concern with recovery abroad, he said, "is that it is essential to the maintenance of the civilization in which the American way of life is rooted."

Condition of Marengo Pastor "Fairly Good"

A report on the conditon of Rev. S. M. Firestone of Marengo, made by the Chicago hospital where he is receiving care for injuries suffered in a traffic accident Tuesday, was quoted as "fairly good" in a news release by The Associated Press today. Mrs. Mary E. Firestone, wife of the pastor of the Marengo and Fulton Methodist churches, was killed in the accident. The Firestones were in Chicago to meet a son, S. M. Firestone Jr., of Appleton, Wis., and his family to bring them to Marengo for the holidays.

western Europe.

The outlook for other key items on the European want-list, as seen by the government:

Steel—In the first year, 1,800,000 metric tons of finished steel may be supplied, 50 per cent more than requested. But less than half the requested 2,800,000 tons of crude and semi-finished steel, one-tenth of the scrap, and one-half of the steel-making equipment will be available. None of the scrap will be sent by the United States

Timber—Shipments ranging upward from $520,000,000 a year will be met fully.

Freight cars—The Paris report asked 103,000 freight cars, worth $367,000,000. The government believes it failed to show a need for more than 26,000 cars and plans to export only 20,000 in the first year, 6,000 in the second.

Coal-mining equipment—Total shipments of $208,000,000 are feasible, slightly below the Paris request.

Petroleum equipment—U. S. exports may run close to $950,000,000 in the four years. The need, when equipment for U. S. companies in Europe is added to Europe's own request for $588,000,000 in such supplies, amounts to some $1,500,000,000.

Electric power equipment—American shipments can supply needed generating and transmission facilities later in the program.

Self-Help Prospects

In weighing the prospects for European self-help, the government judged that the farm production goals set by the 16 nations at Paris are "reasonable and attainable."

The coal production goal is "technically achievable" but not if there are strikes or poor organization of effort. Steel output cannot be increased as desired, nor can the consumption of hydro-electric power be raised to twice pre-war levels, as projected. The 1949 goal for expanded use of petroleum probably cannot be met until 1951-52.

Despite these latter disappointing estimates, the government said, "European industrial recovery will not be significantly impeded provided finished steel is directed to the most urgent uses, namely the equipment-making and metal-fabricating industries producing durable capital goods"

BOARD HAS 55 BIDS FOR SCHOOL POSITION

Applications To Succeed Holt Considered at Meeting.

The closing of business for the calendar year, consideration of applications and credentials of applicants for the superintendency of the Marion City schools and a discussion of the proposed school program were major items of business at the adjourned meeting of members of the Marion City board of education last night at the school administration building

In anticipation of employing a school head to succed Supt. E. E. Holt, who has accepted the position of superintendent of schools at Springfield, the members examined the applications and credentials of 55 men for the consideration of possible applicants for the position. Following this the board selected those considered most likely to fit into the local school system and today letters were forwarded to them inviting them to meet with the board for interviews. It is expected these interviews will be completed this week and next.

Following the business session during which the board declared the books officially closed for 1947, authorized the payment of bills in the amount of $9,200, and accepted the resolution of County Auditor Harry V. Mounts for tax rates for the coming year, there was a conference with Thomas A. McLaughlin of the firm of McLaughlin & Keil, architects, of Lima, regarding the possible construction of both the North State Street and Junior High school, and the possibility of going ahead with the work at the Silver Street school. It was the decision of the board to present the figures and other information brought out in the conference to the Civic Planning Association before determining what course of action would be followed in the proposed construction program. A meeting with the planning association will be requested by the board early in the new year to discuss the project.

Immediate work authorized by the board includes completion of a new lighting system at the Silver Street building. This project will provide efficient lighting facilities in all the rooms with the installation of the new electric system.

Tax rates for the forthcoming year are as follows: general fund, inside the 10 mill levy 3.40, outside six mills: bond and coupon account 4.42 mills

Premier Under Fire As Strike Looms in Italy

By The Associated Press

ROME, Dec. 19—Galled by a continuous barrage of criticism from the far left, Premier Alcide de Gasperi was expected today to ask the constituent assembly for a new vote of confidence as a swelling wave of labor strife convulsed Italy.

Violence flared up both on the assembly floor and on the labor front last night, and the country faced its second nationwide strike in a month—that of 300,000 food-handlers whose walkout was scheduled to begin tomorrow.

NLRB Hearing Set at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 19—The national labor relations board, faced with the task of effecting a settlement of the North Electric Manufacturing Co. labor troubles, has indicated a formal hearing will be conducted shortly after the first of the year to determine whether the UAW-CIO or an Independent union is entitled to represent the company workers.

Board field examiners from Cleveland Thursday held an informal conference at Galion city hall inquiring into the bargaining rights dispute, the aftermath of a 74 day strike by UAW. An independent union of company employes formed during the violence marked strike which rated a congressional investigation, claims a majority of company workers.

A spokesman for the North Electric Company said that the CIO, at the conference, Thursday, raised the question as to whether or not the agreement which was signed Nov. 1 by CIO and North Electric Co. to end the 74-day strike, was binding. The company spokesman said that while the CIO agreed to the cross-check of CIO membership pledge cards against the company payroll as of Aug. 19, the union did not consider that part of the agreement binding which provides that the CIO would not make any objections to an NLRB decision on near Powell, Delaware county, O.

Then there is the reception line at official functions, when the first lady must stand for hours and shake hands with people until her wrist is sore.

Many of these duties on behalf of Ohio's bachelor governor have been performed by his daughter, Mrs. Metta Stevers of Cleveland.

The new Mrs. Herbert will have competent help, however, in managing the mansion, which operated this year on a $16,980 budget. Miss Bertha Kuebler, who has been with the Herbert family for 25 years, is the mansion housekeeper.

The governor's eldest son, Dan, 23, has lived at the mansion with his father since Herbert became governor last January. He is a student at Ohio State university. Another son, John, 16, attends Culver Military academy.

Friends said Miss Stevenson was the former wife of Maurice G Butler of Danville, Ind. They were divorced in Danville in 1938.

Bride Will Have Big Household Job

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 19—When Mildred Helen Stevenson of Indianapolis becomes the bride of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert on Jan. 3 she also will be marrying a strenuous job.

That job, as "first lady" of Ohio, makes her mistress of a 13-room mansion with more than six servants and a host of chores that go with her position.

It is an easy day when an Ohio governor's wife is not required to entertain at the mansion, attend a tea or represent her husband at some office.

Columbus is noted as a convention town, and almost daily women delegates visit the governor's residence.

17 Are Indicted In White Slave Ring

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Dec. 19—Fifteen indictments, charging 13 men and four women with Mann act violations, were returned in U. S. district court here yesterday, culminating a week-long grand jury investigation of an alleged white slave ring at Ironton, O.

FBI agents, who arrested a total of 64 persons in Ohio and elsewhere, said the Ironton ring dated back at least 60 years with the traffic in women extending into Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Two of the women indicted, Evelyn M. Davis and Emma Nichols, were described by the FBI as "operators of houses" at Ironton. Two Ironton taxi drivers, Wilford B. Vogelsang and Roy B. Miller also were indicted.

Other indictments named: Cyril Tankersley, 20, Cincinnati; Robert A. Worthington, 26, Newport, Ky.; Ollie Nichols, husband of Emma Nichols; William E. Griffith, Ironton; Arthur Hall, Ironton.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

WHENEVER I see my mother-in-law after having been absent from her for an interval, I am forcibly reminded of the quotation: "Age cannot wither, nor custom stale, her infinite variety."

She is always so full of enthusiasm over anything new, her spirit so indomitable in its triumph over pain, illness, and all other troubles, that I always doff a mental chapeau to her.

My father had made no mistake in planning to give her first-hand news of the problem which Georges' unexpected arrival in New York had given to all of us. She looked up at me with bright, attentive eyes as I spoke, and when I finished, gestured to a chair near her bedside.

"Pull that up and sit down," she said, with all her usual peremptoriness of manner. "Of course, I can see why you wouldn't want an audience while you're telling me of some problem of your father's.

"I'm very grateful to your father," she went on, "and complimented by his tribute to my discretion."

"He knows twenty teams of wild horses couldn't get a word out of you," I said, smiling affectionately at her, and she returned the smile, albeit a trifle sardonically.

"I should hope not," she said. "But go on. Tell me what he said."

Once more I plunged into the story of Georges, beginning with his unexpected appearance in New York. I told her of his concealment at the Underwoods, together with the reason for his being in this country, and my father's plan to keep him at the farmhouse secret chamber until it was safe for him to proceed further on his mission.

"Does that mean you'll have to stay out there and guard him?" she asked a bit tartly, when I paused, and all her old dislike of Georges was in her voice.

"No, I'm coming back tomorrow," I told her, "but listen! As the children say: 'Yoi haint heard nuthen yet.' "

A little grin twiched her lips.

"I'm waiting to hear it," she reminded me, and I swiftly told her of Georges' desire to be married immediately to Olina, and of my father's plan for the camouflaged house party for the Philip Veritzens, to be given by Dicky and me. At that point she interrupted me summarily.

"What about Mary and Noel?" she said. "Are they going to be of the party?"

"Oh, yes!" I said, trying to speak casually. "Naturally at a party of that sort where the presentation of my new play is to be publicized, Mary, as the star of the play, would have to be there, and, of course, Noel would come with her."

"Naturally," my mother-in-law agreed. "But, Margaret," she said, with eyes suddenly anxious, "is that wise, or safe? Don't you remember Noel's actions of the time when Georges was here before? Not that I blamed him much," she added. "Georges certainly was the most anointed jackass that ever brayed."

She was so vehement, that I could not help laughing, and she smiled reluctantly, but immediately turned serious again.

"I mean it," she said. "Even a jackass can be dangerous sometimes."

"I don't think you need to worry, Mother," I told her smiling. "Your son has evolved a scheme to deal with Georges. He's going to have him under his eyes constantly, and if he even peeps out of turn, I think he's prepared to straighten Georges out so drastically that he won't speak for twenty-four hours."

"Richard is very resourceful," she said proudly, "and I imagine he may be able to manage that popinjay. But I'm going to warn him he can't relax for a second."

She leaned back against her pillows for an instant, and then straightened up again.

"Look here!" she said militantly. "Did you say Mary is going out there? How soon? Is she able to go?"

"She won't go for several days," I said, "and by that time she'll be perfectly able to go."

"Then, will you tell me," she demanded with acerbity, "why she can't come to see her old grandmother?"

ATOM BOMB NEWS STUNNED GERMANS

By The United Press

CHICAGO — German scientists knew nothing of the Manhattan project until they head a dinner-time broadcast on Aug. 6, 1945, giving the first news of the atomic bomb attack on Hiroshima.

So says Dr. Samuel A. Goudsmit, Northwestern University professor of physics.

Goudsmit, in a book entitled "Alsos," which tells about his work with an intelligence unit sent to investigate German scientific activity after the invasion of Europe, said the scientists were taken completely by surprise.

"The initial reaction of the German physicists...was one of utter incredulity," he said.

"'Impossible,' they said. 'It can't be an atomic bomb,' one of their number said. 'It's probably propaganda, just as it was in Germany.'

"That being settled, the German scientists were able to finish their dinner in peace and even partially digest it. The impact on the scientists was shattering. . . . At one stroke, all their self-confidence was gone, and the belief in their own scientific superiority gave way to an intense feeling of despair and futility."

Shortly thereafter several young German scientists hit upon a "brilliant rationalization" of their failure, Goudsmit recounted.

"This, then," he said, "was to be the new theme song of German science: Germany worked on the uranium problem for peaceful uses only; the allies, for purposes of destruction."

Goudsmit warned that such talk is being used to spread again the legend of German "scientific superority." They want the world to think, he said, that only the Germans were attempting to utilize atomic energy for the good of mankind.

The name of the book came from the title of the intelligence mission, of which he was scientific head. "Alsos," the Greek name for Groves, was used because the mission was under orders of Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, director of the Manhattan project.

Sale of 1948 Dog Tags Started by Auditor

Dog owners and kennel operators were reminded by County Auditor Harry V. Mounts today that 1948 dog tags and kennel licenses must be obtained prior to Jan. 20 to avoid penalty.

Tags went on sale this week at the same prevailing fees: male, $1; female, $3; spayed female, $1 and kennel license, $10. Applications will be accepted by mail if sex, color, breed and other descriptive information is contained in the application.

Licenses reached a new high during 1947, Mr. Mounts reported with a total of 6,341 issued including 76 kennel licenses. The 1947 total was 21 over the 6,320 figure for 1946.

Nutrition is Your Business and Ours

In this wintry month, as America prepares for that feast which celebrates the birth of the Prince of Peace, men and women of good will take spiritual stock, give thanks for many blessings.

Well-nourished bodies and minds are the wealth of America. One of the great blessings that this country enjoys is the food it produces in such abundance. Farmers and ranchers who produce this food, and we at Swift & Company who process and distribute it, have an occasion for satisfaction in our teamwork. Together we can say—and proudly—"Nutrition is our business."

Good nutrition begins with soil itself. Out of the soil come the crops—the fruits and grains and vegetables we eat. Out of the soil also come the grasses and legumes and grains on which livestock feed—the very foundation of the meat and dairy products that are the protein backbone of our nation's food.

Today the American people are better nourished than ever before in history. This is cause for pride and rejoicing. For a better fed, healthier people leads to a stronger nation with greater capacity for clearer thinking, for work and production.

Good nutrition adds life to your years and years to your life. Good eating, which today we call the science of nutrition, is not an accident. It must be planned—beginning with the preparation of the soil and continuing through the raising of the crops and livestock, to the selection and preparation of meals for the table. This is an activity in which we all play an important part. Swift men of research and technology, like you farmers and ranchers all over America, are seeking ways in which the food of our people may be improved and our joint operations made to thrive ever more abundantly.

Martha Logan's Recipe for MINCEMEAT

1 pound cooked beef shank, chuck, or neck meat	1½ pounds brown sugar
1 cup meat stock	1 quart cider
½ pound suet	2 teaspoons salt
4 pounds apples	2 teaspoons nutmeg
½ pound currants	2 teaspoons cloves
1 pound seeded raisins	3 teaspoons cinnamon
	5 tablespoons lemon juice

Pare, core, and chop apples. Chop together currants and raisins. Add apples, sugar, cider, and meat stock. Cook about 5 minutes. Grind meat and suet. Add with seasonings to apple mixture. Simmer 1 hour, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Add lemon juice.

This mincemeat may be made ahead of time and canned for use throughout the holiday season. (Yield: 4 quarts)

Track Down the Facts

The beaver is an industrious and intelligent animal. He fells trees, builds dams, and wastes little effort or material. A "by-product" of his building operations—the bark of limbs and logs—provides his supply of winter food.

We in the livestock and meat industry have been "busy as beavers" developing methods of saving the different by-products of livestock. [illegible]

Business is Built on Faith

The American business system is based on keeping faith with the people whom business serves. For example, if Swift & Company is to continue to be successful, five distinct groups of people must have faith in our ability to serve them: producers, stockholders, employes, retailers and consumers.

Farmers and ranchers look to us to provide a daily cash market, and to compete in buying their livestock and other products. We, in turn, depend on you for raw materials. Our operations and yours are interdependent and based on mutual trust in each other's fair dealing.

The 64,000 stockholders invest their savings in Swift & Company with faith that good management will earn them a fair return on their investment. To keep that faith, the company must earn a reasonable profit.

COMPETITION SETS THE PACE

There's lots of competition in the livestock and meat [illegible] in the buying of livestock, and [illegible] of the meat and by-products. [illegible] a total of [illegible] more than [illegible] operating in the United States. Of course, Swift & Company [illegible] every one of these [illegible] it [illegible]. Lolly, British Heroine

Entire British Family Faces Years of Continued Austerity

(What years of war and privation in peace have done to the average working-class family in Britain, how they have maintained strength and humor through it all is described in the following final article in a series by Inez Robb, International News writer recently returned from London.)

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—The Segrott family of London survived the blitz and the buzz bombs And now there is no doubt that they can and will survive their nation's long-term austerity.

But it has had its effect on every member of the family.

When Jessie, 23, the eldest daughter, was married a few days after Princess Elizabeth, she and her bridegroom, Frankie May, gladly moved into the small flat in Bermondsey, on London's east side, occupied by the bridegroom's mother.

This shared flat will be their home for at least two or three more years.

The housing situation is so desperate in London that Jessie and Frankie have no hope for a home of their own for a long time to come

Even though Frankie spent five years in the British army, three and a half of them overseas, there is no veteran's priority or building to furnish him with a home of his own.

They have long since registered and made application for a flat, but the young Mays know they will be lucky to get it in no more than two years.

Notice Comes Too Late

It is sadly ironic that only 10 days ago, Jessie's sister, Nellie Segrott Bishop, 21, got formal notice that the flat for which she applied three years ago when she was married is at last ready for her.

That notice came many months too late. Tommy Bishop, Nellie's young husband, died seven months ago of tuberculosis.

And although Nellie has a job in a factory and is able to support herself and her two-year-old daughter, Gloria, the authorities will not let her have the flat.

The regulations demand that the head of the family shall be a man, and Nellie's man is dead. So she will go on living in the overcrowded little flat with Tommy's family.

When this thin young girl goes to work each morning, she leaves Gloria, a fat, bouncing baby, at a day nursery, and there picks her up after work at night.

Lolly Segrott, Nellie's mother, does the same thing with her own two-year-old daughter, Christine, when she goes to work.

Britain's Women's Army

Lolly and Nellie are but two of the innumerable women in Briton straining to help produce the goods with which the nation is struggling so valiantly to get back on its economic feet.

Now, as when I was in England in 1941-42, Englishwomen are being exhorted by their government to go into factories, to work longer hours and help produce vital goods for export.

Peace has brought no realization or let-up for them.

There is still another woman in the Segrott family for whom I have great affection. She is Lolly's 75-year-old mother, Louise Pearce.

Incredible as it seems, this spry little old woman lives on a pension of one pound of $4 a week.

Despite the fact she is half blind from cataracts, "Nannie" Pearce lives by herself in a tiny, immaculate flat in an old tenement in Bermondsey.

It is a mystery to the English how any, individual can live on one ration book. Families can manage together. But an individule alone! The ration is simply too small.

Cheerful On $4 A Week

And it is a mystery to an American how any one can live on $4 a week. But Nannie Pearce lives on her one ration book and her $4 per week and asks naught of any man.

Cheerful and chipper, she danced a jig at her granddaughter's wedding and then went home to her cold flat and a rationed cup of tea.

Even now, at 76, she does a bit of washing every now and then for the neighbors to eke out a slender existence.

For the Segrotts, as for millions of other Britons, life is hard. But none complains. It is as cheerful a family as ever I met. All but Alfie, 10, and the two babies, are workers and producers.

Jessie did not give up her job the other day when she got married for the simple reason that without her salary, the young Mays would be unable to, save a penny toward their future home.

Peace has brought no opportunity to let down or relax to the Segrotts and their kind. Even their pleasures are fewer because they are more costly.

It costs too much now to go out for fish and chips as they once did, for a weekly treat.

Nor do they go to the ancient Briton, their pub and club, as once they did.

"Beer cost 5-pence a pint in 1939," Alfred Segrott explained, "and now it costs 15-pence. And what's more, it was three times as strong in 1939!"

Lolly spoke up, and she spoke for millions of British women. She looked around her little home and her family and fervently said:

"As long as we keep well, that's all that matters."

Grotto Completes Plans For Christmas Party

Final plans were made Thursday night for the annual Christmas party of Kadgar Grotto which will be held at the Masonic temple Saturday night.

This year the committee in charge, of which Neil Smith is chairman, has arranged to entertain the children from the children's home, along with the children of the members of the Grotto Santa Claus will be there and pass out gifts for all of the 55 children now at the home. This has been made possible by the cooperation of the Marion merchants who have contributed gifts. The Marion Rapid Transit Co. will bring all of the children to the temple and return them to the home after the party.

A large Christmas tree will be brightly decorated and Santa Claus will pass out the gifts along with candy and oranges. Some fine entertainment has also been arranged for.

The party will start promptly at 7:30 p. m. in order that the children from the home will not be out too late. Refreshments will be served.

EXPECT MORE REVENUE

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus stands to receive more in tax revenue in 1948 than was received in 1947 according to figures presented by City Auditor E. C. Oppenlander. Approximately five to seven per cent more is expected from [illegible] revenue and reappraisal of local real estate is also expected to boost the total. Conversion of all gasoline revenue to roads and streets will also make more money available in Bucyrus for that purpose, he pointed out.

Switzerland has about twice the area of Massachusettes.

He Can't Stop Now!

In sports, in business, in all of life, we all are constantly making decisions which, once made, commit us to a certain course of action. Once these decisions are made, there is no turning back.

Obviously, then, it behooves us to consider our decisions with care, and to make them only after we have before us information enough, and reliable enough, to assure us that we are making the best possible decision.

When you select a funeral director, you make an important decision, one involving both peace of mind and a considerable sum of money. It is our suggestion that you make that decision in advance of necessity, and that you base it upon unprejudiced information. Your friends who have had occasion to make such a selection in the past should be in a position to extend such counsel now.

We are, and always have been, content to be judged by the opinions of those who know, from actual experience, the nature and the scope of Schaffner-Denzer funeral service.

Toledo Humbles Western Michigan; Capital, Wooster Win College Games

By The Associated Press

The rapid Rockets of the University of Toledo burst into their customary brilliance in Ohio collegiate cage circles last night, swooshing over Western Michigan, 68-49, for their seventh consecutive win, the hottest record in Buckeyeland.

In the Ohio conference, the defending champions, Capital university's Lutherans, kept their title defense as spotless as a fourth string uniform with a third straight victory, 60-39, over Wilmington college.

To Wooster college went the night's comeback honors. Wallowing behind at halftime with only nine points chalked up, Wooster counted 53 points in the last half to top Grove City (Pa.), 62-42.

Toledo's co-captains Dal Zuber and Charlie Harmon paced the Rockets with 26 and 22 points, respectively. Western Michigan's Don Boven netted 14 points.

The Toledo-Western Michigan contest was the nightcap of a double bill. Loras topped University of Detroit in the opener, 63-58.

Capital university had a wide edge over Wilmington in the final accounting, but it wasn't until the second half the Ohio conference champions really got to rolling. Wilmington led, 19-15, at the end of the first quarter. A Capital spurt with three minutes left in the first half pulled the Lutherans ahead, 31-22, at halftime.

Wooster's slow-starting basketeers netted only nine points in the first quarter against Grove City and didn't score at all in the second period.

After the intermission, they whipped up a 28-point third quarter spree led by Wagner, their center, who made 23 points for top scoring honors. Wooster slowed somewhat in the fourth quarter—scoring only 25 points.

California, Purdue, Southern Methodist Rated Most Improved Gridders of 1947

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—California, Purdue and Southern Methodist are rated the most improved football teams of 1947 in the annual Associated Press season-end poll of writers, coaches and athletic directors. The same group tabbed Ohio State and Iowa as the greatest disappointments.

Rated on the basis of recovery after a shaky start, the honors would have gone to North Carolina, Oregon and Alabama which finished strong. But the poll was conducted with the idea of comparing final results with pre-season expectations.

Lynn Waldorf, coaching the California Bears for the first time, walked into a tough job. The team lost seven of nine starts in 1946. In a complete reversal of form by many of the same players, California won nine of 10, losing only to Southern Cal., the Pacific Coast conference champions, 39-14.

Out of Cellar

Purdue bounced around the Big Nine cellar last fall but rallied strongly behind new Coach Stu Holcomb for a fine record of five wins and four defeats in strenuous competition. The Boilermakers bowed to Wisconsin by 18 points, threw a scare into Notre Dame before succumbing, 22-7 and then lost to Minnesota by five points and to Indiana by two.

Southern Methodist, led by Doak Walker who returned from service late last season, swept through the Southwest conference with a perfect record until tied by Texas Christian in its final game. A 14-13 decision over Texas was the clincher. Coach Matty Bell's Mustangs won only four of 10 in 1946.

The North Carolina club, highly touted in pre-season talk, bowed to Texas and Wake Forest before springing to seven straight victories including 13-7 over William and Mary, 21-0 over Duke and 40-7 over Virginia.

Tide Bowls Over 7

Alabama also started slowly losing two of its first three, but the Tide bowled over seven successive foes to move into the Sugar Bowl opposite Texas.

Jim Aiken must have done a great job in his first year at Oregon. The Webfeet lost three out of four and then cut loose with a six-game win string that brushed off Washington, San Francisco, Idaho, Washington State, Stanford and Oregon State.

Penn State, Iowa State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Rutgers, Mississippi and Maryland were others drawing more than one vote each in the "most improved category."

Failure of the Ohio State line was generally accepted as the reason for the Buckeyes' flop, winning only two and tying one in nine starts.

The team that was given the pre-season buildup as the "dark horse" of the Big Nine was Iowa yet they failed to do better than three won and a tie in nine games. Things were so tough that Coach Eddie Anderson offered his resignation just before the Minnesota game. His team then went out and knocked over the favored Gophers, 13-7.

WOLVERINES PLAN 9 PRACTICE SESSIONS

By The Associated Press

LA JUNTA, Colo., Dec. 19—Michigan's 44-man football squad, bound for the Rose Bowl for the first time in 46 years, planned nine strenuous practice sessions in Pasadena, Calif., after brief stops here and at Albuquerque, N. M.

Coach Fritz Crisler's undefeated Western conference champions sped westward today on a 10-car special section of the Santa Fe's Super Chief after a noisy sendoff yesterday at Ann Arbor and a reception by Michigan alumni at Chicago.

The Super Chief is expected to arrive in Pasadena at 11:12 eastern standard time, tomorrow morning.

N.F.L. Player Draft Starts in Pittsburgh

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 19—The Steel City became the professional football center of the country today as National Football league moguls poured in for their annual player draft scramble.

There's an outside chance some other matter will come up at the meeting, slated to begin at 6 p. m. (E.S.T.) but Commissioner Bert Bell says he isn't looking for too much action except in the player mart where the 10 clubs will each select 30 draftees.

"Everything we conceivably could take action on requires unanimous consent and we're going to be busy for hours drafting these college boys," Bell declared. "Of course you never know what will happen."

No Rest, No Dates For Rose Bowl Queen

By International News Service

PASADENDA, Calif., Dec. 19—There was no rest today for 18-year-old Virginia Goodhue, for the Rose Bowl queen has her obligations.

The green-eyed, golden-haired choice over 2,345 girls has a strict schedule to follow until Jan. 1 when she presides over a 100-float parade before an expected two million spectators.

As a Rose Bowl queen Virginia must not:

Have dates. Allow her posture to slump. Be seen without a smile on her face.

She will escort Gen. Omar N. Bradley, newly-appointed Army Chief of Staff, who will ride as the Rose parade's Grand Marshal.

Miss Goodhue is five feet six and one-half inches tall, weighs 116 pounds and is a junior at John Muir college.

BROWNS DRAFT 4 WITH YEAR TO GO

Durkota, Dworsky, Sarkisian, Eddleman Selected.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19—Three sterling Big Nine conference football stars and undefeated Penn State's leading scorer—Jeff Durkota—were among 15 players drafted Tuesday at New York by the champion Cleveland Browns of the All America conference.

Coach and general manager Paul Brown made this disclosure today, stating that the Browns were announcing only four draft choices at the present time.

Drafted with Durkota were center Dan Dworsky of Michigan's Rose Bowl entrant; Alex Sarkisian, star center and Northwestern captain-elect, and Dwight (Dike) Eddleman, Illinois standout.

The four, said Brown, each have one more year of collegiate eligibility remaining if they desire to use it. He said six of the Browns 15 selections were in this category and also that six of the choices were centers.

Durkota, 205-pound right halfback, was the Browns' first choice when the A.A.C. champions got their chance to draw after all other clubs had made their selections.

Eddleman, Brown said, probably will not be approached about joining the Browns until after the 1948 Olympics. He is a leading contender for the high jump spot on the American squad. Eddleman now holds the Western conference high jump record at just under 6 feet, 8 inches.

Dworsky is the second Michigan star the Browns have drafted despite remaining collegiate eligibility. Last year they chose halfback Bob Chappuis who already has climaxed his final season by winning first string All America honors.

VEECK HEADS WEST ON PLAYER HUNT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians planned to leave today on the first leg of a western trip during which he will attempt to sign several Tribe players for the 1948 season and check on the condition of others.

At Tucson, Ariz., he will spend Christmas with his family, complete arrangements for the club's spring training camp and take a look at the ailing left arm of outfielder Hal Peck, who had been staying at the Veeck ranch.

Later, he said, he intends to visit Santa Barbara, Calif., where outfielder Pat Seerey is attempting to pare his weight from 233 to 196.

PREXIES SET TO LASSO COWBOYS

Columbus West's Cowboys invade the Edison gymnasium tomorrow night and Coach Somerlot's Harding High Presidents are ready to go all out for their second cage win of the season.

The Prexies will meet a quintet probably the toughest they'll face this season. If the Presidents make as much progress this week as they did between the first game and the second there is a strong chance that the Harding boys will lasso the high-riding Cowboys.

Coach George Williams' team will come to Marion after having played two previous games this week. The Cowboys were rated as one of the first five teams in the state last year, and most of their line-up is back this year.

Game time is at 7 p. m. for the reserves and 8 for the varsity.

Robinson-Taylor Title Bout Stirs Detroit

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Dec. 19 — Vividly fresh memories of Joe Louis' recent near-upset stirred Detroit's fight populace to high pitch today for the Ray Robinson-Chuck Taylor welterweight title scrap here tonight.

Louis, Sugar Ray's hero, will be at ringside. He will be pulling for the 147-pound king to defend his crown with more aplomb than the heavyweight mauler had against Jersey Joe Walcott earlier this month.

Only the possibility of such a recurrence could arouse enough interest to lead promoter Nick Londes to predict an Olympia stadium record crowd of some 19,000 for the 15-rounder.

K. of P. Plans Fox Hunt In Green Camp Area

Tentative plans for a fox hunt in Green Camp community on Jan. 3 beginning at 10 a. m. were made when Scioto lodge, Knights of Pythias, last night named Grover Bosart, Carl Seiter and Carl Matson as a general committee.

The committee will name the team captains and lay out the course of the hunt, working in connection with O. H. Neimeyer, county game warden.

Green Camp Pythian Sisters will serve dinner in the lodge hall.

BUC'S RALPH KINER LEADS N.L. SLUGGERS

3 Giants—Mize, Cooper, Marshall—in Top 5.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 — Ralph Kiner, the belting beauty of the Pittsburgh Pirates, wound up with the highest slugging average in the National league in 1947 according to final official figures released by the league today.

The husky Pirate outfielder hit for a total of 361 total bases in 565 times at bat for a lofty .639 average. Johnny Mize of New York, who tied Kiner for the home run leadership at 51, finished second in the slugging department with .614. Mize led in runs batted in with 138.

Two other Giants, Walker Cooper and Willard Marshall wound up in the first five in slugging. Cooper was third at .586 and Marshall fifth at .528. Whitey Kurowski of St. Louis was fourth at .544.

Bill "Swish" Nicholson of Chicago struck out the oftenest, 83, while Emil Verban of Philadelphia fanned the least among those players who appeared in 100 or more games. Verban struck out only eight times in 540 trips to the plate in 155 games.

Pittsburgh's Hank Greenberg walked the most, 104, while Kurowski was hit most often by pitched balls, 10, and tied Andy Pafko of Chicago for grounding into the most double plays, 19.

The Giants dominated the teams in slugging finishing with a .454 percentage and driving in the most runs, 790 and collected the most total bases, 2,425.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh grounded into the most twin-killings, 136 while the Pirates fanned the most, 687 and the Dodgers strolled the oftenest, 731, breaking their National league record of 691 set in 1946.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Texas will miss Bobby Layne next football season, but there's one compensation—a 170-pound lad named Paul Campbell who is described as "a ball-handling magician." He isn't as good a passer now as Layne but he has possibilities . . Layne will be around for another baseball season, which explains the prediction that Bibb Falk's team will be as good as the one that lost out to California's N.C.A.A. champions by one run in last summer's playoffs . . . Ed Dudley and Scotty Fessenden say that Fred Corcoran wasn't being gently booted upstairs when he was put in charge of pro golf's youth program, but a lot of folks will miss Freddie around the tournament circuit . . They may be right, at that. The new job carries a lot more responsibility than soothing ruffled golf pros and equally ruffled golf writers.

A HIALEAH publicity handout says that racing secretaries John B. Campbell and Charles J. McLennan have picked Calumet's Citation as "the two-year-old most likely to succeed." . . . Citation only won $155,680 this year . . . What do they call succeeding?

NEW YORK—you don't believe there are two sides to every story, even in a 73 to 0 football game? Well, you've been missing something if you haven't read two football books which have been published during recent months.

One of the books is "The Chicago Bears," a well-written history of the Bears by Howard Roberts. The other is the story of the Washington Redskins, "My Life with the Redskins," by Corinne Griffith, former motion picture actress and wife of Redskin owner George Preston Marshall.

In each book is one chapter devoted entirely to the 73-0 rout the Bears scored over the Redskins in Washington on Dec. 8, 1940, in the National Football league championship playoff.

Bears Perfect

The Bears were perfection that day. There is no other explanation, says Roberts, for the score that reads like a misprint in the record books.

"The greatest weapon Owner-Coach George Halas brought into play was psychology," claims Roberts. "The Redskins had made what Halas termed some "tactical vocal errors' after an earlier 7-3 victory, and now these were deftly turned against them. It seems that a club official with a careless disregard for the interpretation that might be placed on his words had been quoted in the public prints as referring to the Bears by such uncomplimentary terms as 'front runners' and 'a first-half ball club.' The Redskins had called the Bears 'crybabies' in the final minute of their earlier meeting.

"When the Bears came to practice the Monday morning preceding the championship game, their eyes fell upon these disparagements of their courage and staying power plastering the walls of the clubhouse. The reaction was terrific."

BILL OSMANSKI, CHICAGO BEARS' fullback, cuts around left end on the first scrimmage play of the 1940 National Football league playoff game, goes 68 yards for a touchdown, and the rout is on. The Bears took it from there, with 10 men scoring 11 touchdowns, and humbled the Washington Redskins, 73-0, at Griffith stadium, in the one-sided football game.

In the course of compiling this astronomical score the Bears gained 372 yards along the ground to 3 for Washington, top offensive team in the league. The Bears made 11 touchdowns with 10 men doing the scoring. Six other Bears had a hand (or a toe) in converting seven extra points.

"Every placement kick," says Roberts in his book, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, "sailed into the stands back of the goal posts and didn't return. The fans kept the balls as souvenirs."

All the new balls purchased for the game were gone. Even practice balls were kept by the fans.

"So after the last two touchdowns," says Roberts, "officials asked the Bears please not to kick for the point." Washington is a big city but there just weren't enough footballs for the number of fans sitting with open arms behind the Redskin goal posts. So the Bears passed for the final two extra points, one of which was good.

The next day Danny Fortmann was sporting a black eye. A Pullman passenger viewed the discolored optic with alarm and said:

"My, my, that's a terrible black eye."

"Yes," said Fortmann, "but it will disappear in a day or two. Think of the Redskins—that 73 to nothing score is on the record books for all time!"

Corinne Griffith, in her book published by A. S. Barnes & Company, has other versions of the shellacking. "The team was terribly crippled from a game with New York," she says, adding that "this is no alibi—just a fact."

Mrs. Marshall points out that Charlie Malone dropped one of Sammy Baugh's passes in the end zone early in the game when a catch would have tied the score. The Bears went on from there, one touchdown after another. Then the Redskins began dropping a succession of passes and at the half the Bears led 28-0.

With two minutes left to play the score was 67-0. At this point Mrs. Marshall's husband, owner of the Redskins, elected to leave the stands.

"'I'm going down to those kids, anything might happen,' George yelled over his shoulder," says Mrs. Marshall.

"As he left a voice high up in the stands shouted, 'Get 'em out of here, you Lug. Take 'em back to Boston.'

"'You come down here and say that, you Lug,' It was George answering.

"I was told afterward that two policemen rushed up to George to accompany him to the dressing room."

Mrs. Marshall winds up the chapter of the 73-0 nightmare by describing what happened the following day.

"George bustled out of the house," she says. "I heard later that when he entered the room (where the league met to arrange 1941 schedules), Tim Mara, owner of the Giants said, 'Did you see that guy, Marshall?' He went straight up to Halas and said, 'You misunderstood me. I said the score would be seven to three, not seven-ty three." And he's laughing. What's he got to laugh about?"

Cooler, Martel, Stone's Win in Y.M.C.A. Games

Universal Cooler, led by Smith who tallied 14 points, trampled Sally Ann Inn, 41-17, in the most one-sided of a three-game card in the Y.M.C.A. Thursday Night league last night. In other games, Martel pulled in front of Pollak Steel, 41-33, and Stone's Grill upset Commercial Steel, 34-25.

Universal held the Sally Ann quintet to four good shots from the field and nine from the foul line. Morris, a newcomer to the losing five, scored eight points.

Pollak held Martel in check until the final minutes of the game and allowed high-scoring Gene Freet only 11 points, but Martel began connecting as the game waned and pulled in front. Wier matched Freet's total for the winners, and a much improved Pollak forward, Schorr, led the scoring parade with 14.

Commercial Steel, favored to beat Stone's, couldn't find the basket and missed time after time, while Roebuck, a new addition to the fast-improving winners, proved to be a great help to the Stone quintet. He and Nelson Burbrink each tallied four field goals and Busler six for the winners.

St. Mary Youngsters Overcome Vernon Lead

After trailing 11 to 9 at the intermission, the St. Mary Junior High five overcame the deficit and spurted to a 25-22 win over the Vernon Junior High quintet last night on the Vernon floor.

Pinnerelli, Irish forward, was too much for Vernon as the youngster tallied 17 points. Only one other field goal was scored by St. Mary—that by Kilbury. Ulrich was high for Vernon with six points.

The Vernon reserves triumphed 13 to 6 to get some revenge for the varsity loss.

Dictionary Reading Advised for Junior

By The United Press

CHICAGO—Read junior a page of the dictionary every day or he might become a gangster.

That's the advice given by Max Sherover, head of the Linguaphone Institute of America.

Sherover says that an extremely limited vocabulary results in exhibitionism, which causes anti-social conduct. He cites Al Capone as an example.

Sometimes, he points out, it works the other way, as in the case of Al Smith, who manifested his exhibitionism by becoming one of the best loved figures of all time.

Sherover asserts that reading a page from Webster every day is the best method to increase the vocabularies of children with low word knowledge.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THIS is the season when the "howdy neighbor" spirit comes to Manhattan, and there is no black market in holly.

It is one time in the year when a sucker has a chance for an even break, and every bum gets a handout.

The big grim city throttles down in its strident hurry and becomes the biggest small town in the world, wearing its heart on its sleeve like a friendly badge. The coldest Broadway chiseler remembers his mother with a telegram of greeting — even if it is sent collect.

Hal Boyle

Christmas begins here long before the sound of Santa's reindeer rings across park avenue on the way to the Bowery. It comes in little ways and small surprising courtesies.

One day somebody in the subway bumps you with a gaudy bundle and halts to say "s-cuse me," and nobody falls dead of surprise but everybody in hear just gives a startled grin—and good will grows from face to face. Then you know it: Christmas is coming.

The same thing, of course, is happening everywhere in the Christian world. But somehow it has a special meaning when the slow relaxing of tension and tempo begins here, where high blood pressure is as normal as a sunburn is in Florida.

Nowhere else does the change come so dramatically.

IN RECENT YEARS the biggest signal of the advent of Santa Claus is the erection of a gigantic Christmas tree by neighbor John D. Rockefeller Jr., at the edge of his ice pond in the heart of Radio City.

It glows with a thousand electric tapers and kindles the season for the entire city. All Manhattan becomes a gigantic multi-colored torch. The skyscraper towers are spires of diamond splendor. Color softens the harsh stone with luminous grandure.

Store windows are bright wonderlands of visible plenty lacking in other lands. There are no windows in the world to equal them, and pepole come hundreds of miles each year just to stare at them—these mirrors of how we'd like the American way of life to be all year round, instead of just one brief season.

A European farmchild set down before a blazing Fifth Avenue storefront would think he had suddenly arrived in heaven. It is a kind of heaven while it lasts.

THE STARCH GOES OUT of the boss and the inner rage dies down in the breast of his frustrated stenographer. The boy from the stockroom comes in with a bit of misletoe and brazenly kisses the old maid file clerk, and everybody in the office laughs. In the newspapers the elderly reporter comes in with liquor on his breath and the hard-hearted assistant city editor gently forbears to sniff. Press agents send along a bottle of liquor and hopefully wrap it in the story they know nobody will print.

Yes, gladness is emperor and the city takes its feet off the necks of people who live in it and love it. Down in Greenwich Village folks who don't know each other from Molotov gather in Washington Square and sing carols. Even the Communists join in, and if their fingers are crossed it's too dark to see.

Ride across the bay by ferry at dusk now and you'd swear the whole island is on fire. And it is—with every window holding a star for all who have eyes to see it.

Weddings

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of the wedding Sunday, Dec. 14, of Miss June Waggy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Waggy of near Wyandot, to Melvin Brewer of near Morral. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. C. R. Matthews, pastor of the Wyandot Baptist church. A program of music was presented preceding the ceremony by Mrs. John Sheff.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gray dress with black accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations tied with pink ribbon. Her sister, Miss Beulah Waggy, was her only attendant. She wore an aqua dress and a corsage of white carnations. Charles French served as best man.

A reception was held following the cermony and a buffet lunch was served.

Mrs. Brewer was graduated from Harpster High school in 1945 and is employed at the J. C. Penney Co. store here. Mr. Brewer is engaged in farming. The couple are residing in a newly furnished home near Little Sandusky.

WHALE HUNTERS DISCOVER THAT RADAR DOESN'T HELP

By The United Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Whale hunters along the west coast say that war-developed submarine detectors don't help much in spotting the silent mammals.

The gadgets, including radar and airplane spotters, didn't work out as well as the old crows-nest "Thar she blows" method. Fathometers actually frightened the whales away.

However, surplus naval mine sweepers are being used with a deadly effect as killer boats. They are equipped with muzzle-loading harpoon guns and 80-pound harpoons with an exploding head.

The modern Capt. Ahabs can knock off a whale at a hundred yards. If it's a clean kill, they tow it in tail first. Otherwise, they have to play the whale as sportsmen play salmon, sometimes for several hours.

COMES HOME TO DIE

MARINETTE, Wis. — Christ Christensen, a milkman, made his regular delivery to the house where he was born 50 years ago. As he bent to put the milk on the porch, Christensen collapsed and died on the steps of his former home.

U. S. per capita consumption of fresh milk and cream is 16 per cent above pre-war levels.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS GAIN

By The United Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Recent figures show there is an increase in children's attendance in Sunday school, Mrs. Mabel Wagner of Chicago, director of children's work for the International Council, said during a visit here. Nevertheless, she added, "the records still show that only about a half of our young people are getting religious training."

[illegible] legality of an Independent [illegible]

Says Election Opposed

The company spokesman said that the CIO also objected to an election at the plant asked recently by the Independent Workers Union in a petition to the NLRB.

Duck said. "We won the cross-check and are the proper bargaining unit for the workers. When we wanted an election the company would not give us one, and the strike was called when the company refused us an election in August. We do not want an election because a company spokesman said the company intended to get an election and help the Independent union win it."

At the Thursday conference which was closed at 1 p. m., were: Edward J. Myers of Bucyrus, attorney for the Independent Workers Union and five representatives of this union; Lowell Goerlich of Toledo, counsel for the UAW-CIO, Edward J. Duck and Thomas Kinney, UAW organizers, and five representatives of the local UAW union; with the company represented by Robert H. Jamison and Fred C. Burkholder, Cleveland attorneys, J. H. Baldwin, consultant of the Labor Relations Institute of New York City, Harold Burns, company attorney, and Alan Ryon, personnel director of the plant.

A formal hearing on the dispute to settle bargaining rights has been set for some time after Jan. 1.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Leading stocks held to an irregular course today with assorted market favorites registering a little progress.

Further tax selling and evening up of accounts for the weekend provided a handicap.

Dealings quieted after a fairly active start and fractional price variations ruled near midday.

Ahead at intervals were U. S. Rubber, Republic Steel, United Aircraft, Western Union, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, International Paper and Sears Roebuck. Backward most of the time were N. Y. Central, Cheasapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Woolworth, Boeing, American Can, Du Pont, J. C. Penney and Standard Oil (N.J.).

MIDNIGHT YULE MASS ANNOUNCED AT CAREY

Special to The Star

CAREY—The birthday of the Saviour will be commemorated at the Shrine of Our Lady of Consolation by a solemn Midnight Mass. The officers of the Mass will be: Celebrant, Father Ambrose Finnegan, O.F.M. Conv.; deacon, Father Marcellus Lell, O.F.M. Conv.; subdeacon, Friar Eugene Henley, O.F.M. Conv.; Master of Ceremonies, Friar Killian Speckner, O.F.M. Conv. The sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Father Ambrose

Beginning at 11:30 p. m. on Christmas eve, the children of Our Lady of Consolation school, under the direction of Sister Imelda, O.S.F., will sing carols until midnight. As the procession of altar boys and clergy arrive at the crib, the men's choir will sing the traditional "Silent Night" by Franz Gruber. Mr. Ralph Brown, director of the choir has selected the Choral Mass in honor of Our Lady by L. Bloom. Pietro Yon's "Jesu Bambino" will be sung at the Offertory while the "Adeste Fidelis" is to be heard at the Communion. Mr. Vincent Brown is the organist for the Midnight Mass. Mr. John Welsh will play several selections on the violin.

Morning Masses on Christmas at the Shrine will be celebrated 7, 7:30, 8, 9:30, 10 and 10:30 o'clock. The 10:30 High Mass will be sung by the Friars' choir of Our Lady of Carey Seminary. The Mass chosen is the Gregorian Mass 11, known as "Fount of Goodness."
